Iraqi Petroleum Conferences (IPCs)

Target Exploration organises the Iraqi Petroleum Conference at the Imperial College in London since 1999. The conferences are regular gatherings for upstream petroleum industry professionals for presenting, sharing E&P experiences and advertising opportunities in Iraq. Authors are encouraged to:

- Present new E&P opportunities in Iraq to technical and new-ventures staff of IOC, and research establishments.
- Introduce new E&P ideas, new ventures, procedures, methodologies, and technologies deemed applicable or successfully applied in Iraq and disseminate technical, managerial, legal experiences, solutions, and achievements of Iraqi geoscientists and other technical staff.
- Introduce technical upstream staff, human and financial resources of Iraq to international Oil and Gas, technical services and consulting companies to propagate cooperation between Iraqi upstream staff with R&D staff of international oil companies and research institutes.

Key Benefits:

- 1: Presentations by national, international and independent experts.
- 2: Ideal coverage of Iraq and adjacent oil and gas producing countries, and a major source of E,P&D information on Iraq.
